The following categories describe the most common ways that we may use or share your medical information. For each category, we have provided examples:

- Means the provision, coordination, or management of your health care, including consultations between doctors, nurses, and other providers regarding your care, and referrals for care from one provider to another. For example, your primary care doctor may disclose your protected health information to a cardiologist if he is concerned that you have a heart problem.

- Means the activities we carry out to bill and collect for the treatment and services provided to you. For example, we may provide information to your insurance company about your medical condition to determine your current eligibility and benefits. Note that certain state or release PHI to a coroner or medical examiner. We may also release patients' PHI to funeral directors so they may carry out their duties.

. We may

. If you are involved in a law suit or dispute, we may disclose your PHI subject to certain limitations.

We may release health information about you if asked to do so in response to a court order, subpoena, warrant, summons, or similar process. We also may disclose PHI to identify or locate a suspect, fugitive, material witness, or missing person. In addition, we may disclose information about a crime victim or about a death we believe may be the result of criminal conduct. We may disclose information about criminal conduct on our premises. In emergency situations, we may disclose PHI to report a crime, to help locate the victims of the crime, or to identify, describe, and/or locate the person who committed the crime.

As permitted by law and ethical conduct, we may use or disclose PHI if we, in good faith, believe the use or disclosure is necessary to prevent or lessen a serious and imminent threat to the health and safety of a person or the public, or is necessary for law enforcement to identify or apprehend an individual. New Brunswick, New Jersey 08901 Telephone Number: (732) 266 - 3841

This Notice is effective as of May 27, 2021.